

Department of Economics

The two majors of the Department of Economics include Economics and World Economy.

The main program offered at the Department of Economics comprises four elements:

- quantitative methods and computer training
- core undergraduate courses in Micro-, Macro and International Economics
- advanced courses in Economics with emphasis on Economic Policy and International Trade
- business education courses (Marketing, Management, Accounting, etc.)

Department of Arts

The EHU Arts Department is a national leader in the training of the majority of art critics and nearly half of the designers in Belarus. The EHU is the only educational establishment in Belarus that offers undergraduate courses in international cultural tourism. Every year the programs of this Department enjoy great popularity among young people not only from Belarus, but also from other countries.

This program allows students to pursue both academic and business careers after graduation.

Additionally, students take part in interdisciplinary and interdepartmental programs (e.g. Artes Liberales program, courses offered by the American Studies Center, the Institute for German Studies, etc.)

In the fall of 2000 a doctoral program on World Economy was started. It focuses on the Department's research subject — “The Impact of EU's Enlargement on Trade and Trade Policies in Non-accession Countries with the emphasis on Belarus”.

Prof. Grzegorz Kołodko, professor at Warsaw School of Economics, Director of Economic Research Center, formerly Deputy Prime Minister and Minister of Finance of Poland, at the public lecture at the EHU