Center for Civic Education

The Center for Civic Education was founded in 1997 with advice and support from the Center for Civic Education at Calabasas, USA, the American Councils for International Education and the German Fund for Technical Assistance.

The primary goal of the EHU's Center for Civic Education is fostering research activities, developing teaching materials and their publication, and carrying out seminars and permanent educational retraining programs for high school teachers.

This objective is realized through different types of educational programs in Public Administration that were designed in cooperation with Jackson State University (USA). The latest achievement resulted from this cooperation is the unique master degree program in non-profit organization management.

Library

The EHU Library is one of the best libraries among the private higher educational establishments in Belarus. It possesses a rich stock of volumes and reference materials for teaching and research, including unique collection of literature in foreign languages on the humanities and social sciences, which makes up 50% of the EHU holdings. The development of the library is made possible thanks to donations and support from international organizations and foreign donors.

University Press

The EHU Press publishes textbooks for EHU students as well monographs by the EHU faculty. The books by distinguished Western philosophers and writers translated into Russian and published by the EHU Press are widely regarded as top-quality publications within scholarly community.
