

French-Belarusian Department of Political and Administrative Sciences

At the second stage (third and fourth years of study) they undergo specialized training in psychological disciplines, leading to acquiring extensive knowledge in Clinical, Social or Economic Psychology.

The Department offers graduate program in Psychology with several specializations such as Clinical Psychology, Psychology of Health, Victimology, Psychodiagnostics.

The specialization in Clinical Psychology gives students the opportunity of practical work, psychological consulting and expertise. The specialization in Social and Economic Psychology prepares the trainees for practical activities on personnel selection and training, evaluation and forecast of economic behavior, advertising, conflict management, organizational consulting, and the mass media.

The French-Belarusian Department of Political and Administrative Sciences is the largest educational project in Eastern and Central Europe, supported by the French Ministry for Foreign Affairs, that offers training and degrees equivalent to those of French institutes of political sciences.

The Department's creation was initiated by the French Embassy in Belarus in 1993. Administration of the Department's activities is carried out together with the Academic Council of the French Ministry of Foreign Affairs.

In cooperation with the Institutes of Political Sciences of Bordeaux, Grenoble, Rennes, Lion, Aix-en-Provence, Strasbourg, and the University of Paris-Nanterre-X, the Department trains specialists in the fields of political sciences and world economy.

Teaching is conducted by full-time French and Belarusian faculty, and visiting lecturers are invited not only from France but also from different education institutions of Western and Central Europe and the U.S.

Claude Jolif, French Ambassador to Belarus in 1992-1997, one of the forefathers of the French-Belarusian Department of Political and Administrative Sciences at the EHU